LAND SWIMMING

HOT NEW EXERCISE!

MINNEAPOLIS — A personal trainer has stunned the exercise industry by advising busy executives to quit their gyms and "swim" to work — on city streets!

Maverick fitness guru Walter Harmand, 38, has created a radical new form of exercise that offers all the benefits of swimming, without ever going near a pool.

Harmand's technique, known as "land swimming," was created for busy executives on the go. It involves briskly sailing on city streets and sidewalks while making a swimming motion with your hands. Harmand notes that this process "tones and tightens your upper body, and promotes good cardiovascular conditioning at the same time."

"Many successful businesspeople often complain of being too busy to get to the gym," he explains. "My technique allows them to exercise while commuting — and they can even listen to a Walkman at the same time!"

"Swimming is considered one of the best forms of all-around exercise, because it exercises virtually every part of the body."

Harmand personal trainer to many highly paid corporate CEOs, notes that "land swimming is fast paced, it's fun, and it's even better for you than jogging, bicycling or walking."

If you hit a red light, Harmand advises land swimmers to "build onto a lamppost, or even the traffic light itself, sharply striking each leg out behind you."

He cautions his clients to watch out for other pedestrians, particularly in the New York area. "Try not to swim against the tide," he advises.

One advantage of land swimming, Harmand notes, is that since less stress is placed on the cardiovascular system when swimming on land than in water, you can do so right after you eat, and not have to worry about getting cramps.

Another great advantage according to Harmand "it's a lot safer than swimming in the water. For one thing, there are no sharks. For another, there is no risk of drowning."

Harmand recommends the breaststroke and the good old Australian crawl, as the best strokes for beginners. A more advanced stroke, the butterfly is "better left to people who have been swimming to work for a long time, and who have worked up to it gradually."

Harmand says he doesn't want people to feel that land swimming is just for the rich. "Anyone can swim on land, no matter how much money they have."

Of course, the main practical benefit of swimming on land, according to Harmand, is that "it's free."

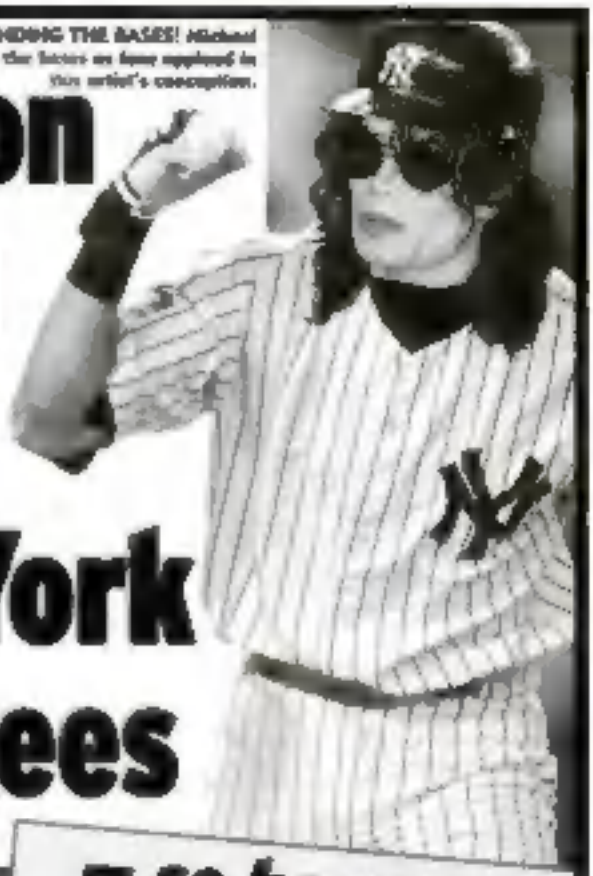
EXCLUSIVE INSIDER REPORT

Michael Jackson buying the New York Yankees

— so he can play center field!



ROUNDING THE BASES! Michael runs the bases as fans applaud in this artist's conception.

By KAYE ROSEBURG
Weekly World News

BRONX, N.Y. — Music legend Michael Jackson may soon be exchanging his trademark sequined glove for a baseball mitt. The eccentric millionaire singer plans to buy the New York Yankees — so he can play center field, sources claim.

"The general public has no idea what a big baseball fan Michael really is," says a source close to the superstar.

"He has not missed a World Series since 1968, he owns loads of sports memorabilia and he loves to toss around a ball with kids who visit his Neverland Ranch.

"Michael's also a surprisingly good athlete — he's got great reflexes and splendid coordination, not to mention those long legs that take him around the bases in a flash.

"He'd love a chance to show everyone how skilled he really is. Plus, owning his very own team and playing for it would just be a lot of fun for him."

Rumors that Michael Jackson was thinking of buying the New York team have been afloat for months, and there have been whispers about an unidentified "mystery buyer" for the team for more than a year.

"There's definitely been talk that Michael is interested in buying the team," a source says. "And he's supposedly made it clear money is no object."

L.A. writer Melissa Tinkley

Entertainment industry insiders say that shrewd businessman Michael may have another motive for purchasing the franchise, apart from pure love of the game.

"Michael's image really took a beating in the '90s when he was accused of sexual misconduct," notes Los Angeles entertainment writer Melissa Tinkley. "If he can get a foothold in America's national pastime, baseball — which is as wholesome as mom and apple pie — he can go a long way toward getting back his squeaky-clean image."

Jackson's camp has not announced anything about the possible purchase.

But some players are already grumbling at the prospect of taking the field with Michael, who they fear could be a prima donna, always demanding special treatment, say sources.

"Who knows, he might make his pet chimp Bubbles our batboy," a source close to the team said.

Many fans also don't like the idea of "Wacko Jacko" joining the company of the many sports greats who've played for the team, which has won 38 world championships.

"The thought of that weirdo getting to prance out on the field, moonwalk around the bases and make a mockery of the sport, just because he's filthy rich, makes me sick," said a 56-year-

RESEARCHERS FIND THE WORLD'S FUNNIEST JOKE!

VIENNA — A blue-ribbon panel of psychologists conducted a massive study to find the world's funniest joke — and when you read it, they say, you WILL laugh your butt off!

Led by famed Austrian clinical psychologist Dr. Maurice Denaret, the experts interviewed a staggering 42,000 adult men and women worldwide over a 17-year period beginning in 1984.

"When all was said and done, we discovered and cataloged a collection of jokes that everyone who participated in the survey found at least mildly humorous, if not hilarious, regardless of their race, creed, native intelligence or educational background," the expert said in a letter to the prestigious European journal, Psychology Today.

Here, from the experts, is the funniest joke in the world, followed by 11 runners-up:

1 What do snakes do after they fight? They kiss and make up.

2 What's the best or fastest way to taste a banana? With your tastebuds.

3 What kind of flower do you have between your nose and your chin? Tulips.

4 Two cannibals are eating dinner and one says, "I hate my mother-in-law." The other replies, "Well, just eat your noodles then."

5 Where did the butcher dance? At the meatball.

6 What did the tie say to the hat? You go on a head, I'll just hang around.

7 What did 6 say to 47? "Nice belt." (Chat if you don't understand that one, compare the "figures" of the figures 6 and 4. Get it?)

8 In what school do you learn how to greet people? In hi school.

9 What happens when George Bush burps? He issues a presidential pardon.

10 What's chili today and hot tamale? A Mexican weather report.

11 What did the mayonnaise say to the refrigerator? "Close the door! Can't you see I'm dressing?"

12 A widow announces to her friend that she's getting married for the fourth time. "How wonderful," says the pal. "But I hope you don't mind me asking what happened to your first husband?"

"Well," answers the bride-to-be, "he ate poisonous mushrooms and died."

"My how tragic," says the pal. "And what about your second husband?"

The widow says, "He ate poisonous mushrooms and died, too."

"Oh, how terrible!" says the pal. "And your third husband?"

"He," says the widow, "died of a broken neck."

The pal says, "A broken neck?"

The widow replies, "He wouldn't eat his mushrooms!"

Turn your bachelor pad into a love nest

HEY, GUYS! A bachelor pad like this could be your ticket to romantic success.

. . . for just $50!

By VICKIE YORK
Weekly World News

CHICAGO — You don't have to be a fussy-pants Washington congressman with a big expense account to entertain your sweetheart in a lavish secret love nest. You can turn an ordinary pad into an ideal spot for romance for $50 or less!

That's the word from Lawrence Smidelbaum, editor of a monthly newsletter for penny-pinchers, Better Living in the U.S.A. on a Budget. "You really don't have to spend a lot of money to create a cozy environment that's ideal for snuggling," said Smidelbaum. "You can treat your honey to first-class accommodations if you have taste and imagination. Simply by putting in the right lighting, for example, you can start to build a romantic setting."

EDITOR Lawrence Smidelbaum

The key for the thrifty Casanova-wannabe, Smidelbaum says, is to invest in used furnishings. You'll not only get better deals, the stuff you purchase will be more suited to creating a sexy atmosphere.

"Bear in mind, the 1970s were the peak of the 'swinging singles' era," the Chicago-based expert said. "Those were the days when ladies' men coast-to-coast competed to create swank bachelor pads, like birds feathering their nests to attract mates.

"Now, all that stuff is available at a thrift store or a garage sale, you can get them today for a song and a dance."

Don't be afraid to furnish, especially at a neighbor's garage sale, Smidelbaum advises.

"Remember, you have the upper hand," he notes. "This is stuff people are so anxious to unload they'd probably pay you to take it."

Here, from the expert, is an example of a fully outfitted love nest and typical prices:

Round waterbed — $10
Beanbag chair — $6
Two lava lamps — $5
Velvet artwork featuring sexy nude figures — $2
Old cotton bathrobe, serving as a "white shag rug" — $0
Two beaded curtains — $4.50
Mirror — $8.50
Screws, anchors for attaching mirror to ceiling — $2.75
Red 75-watt lightbulbs — $1.25
Egg crate, serving as small bookshelf for sex manuals — $0

THE SPIDER GIRLS ARE PREGNANT

KESHABPHUR, India — A shocking sex scandal erupted in this backward village when its most famous residents, the Spider Girls, announced that they're BOTH expecting!

What's more, conjoined twins Jamuna and Ganga Mandal admit they're pregnant by the same man — a handsome, smooth-talking dwarf from New Delhi who stands just 22 inches tall!

The double-trouble pregnancy has sent shockwaves through the traditional community, where the 32-year-old former circus performers spend a quiet lower class

"The Spider Girls present themselves as innocents deserving of sympathy — but it is clear now they are shameless harlots," declared angry shopkeeper Poonu Randevi.

"Were it not for the special protection the girls have assigned to watch over them, they would be run out of the village, or perhaps even stoned to death for their crime."

But Jamuna and Ganga, who are connected at the chest and must walk by scuttling about like a spider, defiantly insist they have nothing to be ashamed of.

"People are unhappy because they don't like to picture us with a man," said Jamuna. "But we need love like anyone else. We are grown women now, not little circus girls."

Many locals point the finger of blame not at the Spider Girls, whose reputation until now has been spotless, but at pint-size traveling salesman Amar Maheswari, who had [illegible] by the [illegible] shop in July and ended up being invited to spend the night.

"He used his fast-talk and his big-city ways to seduce the girls, who had always been chaste," said a female neighbor. "He told both of them he loved them."

The proud papa-to-be Maheswari insists he's sincere in his declarations of love for the Spider Girls and wants to marry one of them — he just hasn't figured out which one.

"They are both very special," he said. "I'm hoping they will be the mothers of my children."

Superstitious villagers believe the Spider Girls are protected by the spirits of the "original" Siamese twins, Chang and Eng, who were sideshow celebrities back in the 1800s.

The bizarre claim gained credence last year, when villagers who blamed a monsoon on the "cursed" girls were preparing to burn them alive — until the ghosts of Chang and Eng reportedly appeared and put a stop to the proceedings.

"Since that time, no one has dared to touch the Spider Girls," said Randevi.

"Perhaps that is why they feel free to act so brazenly now and bring shame upon the village."

But the twins insist that it was true love that drew them to the diminutive Don Juan.

"When he came into our shop we both fell sorry for him," Ganga said. "But he carried himself with dignity and was so full of life, we couldn't help falling in love with him."

Some locals fear that the conjoined twins, after conceiving with another freak of nature, will bear "monstrosities" who will only bring more bad luck to the village. But the girls' physician, Dr. Pradeep Goswami, says their babies probably won't be conjoined twins.

"It is unlikely that their children will be spider boys or girls because the condition is not normally hereditary," he said. "But they may turn out to be quite small, like their father." — By MIKE FOSTER

NOSTRADAMUS PREDICTED N.Y. TERROR ATTACK 467 YEARS AGO!

By [illegible]

But famed seer said peace & justice will soon prevail over evil forces!

PARIS — Famed seer Nostradamus predicted the barbaric destruction of the World Trade Center's twin towers 467 years ago, in the year 1534!

But here's the good news: The 16th-century French psychic said the terrible attack would mark the beginning of the end of terrorism — as right-minded nations all over the world unite to eliminate evil, a top researcher reveals.

"Nostradamus wrote of twin 'giants' being toppled by the act of an evil leader," says Dr. Erol Ibrahim, a leading authority on the clairvoyant.

Nostradamus, who foretold the rise of Nazi madman Adolf Hitler and the outbreak of World War 2, is widely regarded as history's most accurate secular prophet. He recorded his uncanny predictions as convoluted verses known as quatrains. Usually, the verses are difficult to interpret — but in the case of this newly studied quatrain, it's hard to mistake the meaning of the prophet's grim words.

The verse reads, "An evil prince from the East will strike down the twin giants, and many will weep for the thousands dead and cry out for vengeance."

Says Dr. Ibrahim, "There's no doubt that Nostradamus was referring to the two towers of the World Trade Center. The evil 'prince' must be the terrorist mastermind."

Thankfully, the seer says the cowardly kamikaze attack will force nations to demand an end to senseless violence. He predicts that the stricken country will receive support from all corners of the Earth in its battle to strike back against the evil prince.

"The good king of the New World will draw blood to avenge his people. But he will not be alone in his fight, as he will be joined by millions who support him in his battle," Nostradamus wrote. "Together, the forces who have mourned will triumph over evil in a quick and decisive victory.

"For many years to follow, the world

Ever wished your chest was fuller and sexier...

Now all women who dream of having a fuller, firmer chest can obtain a bottle of Centela Busta MPK09 imported directly from France, a value of $40, for FREE for the next four weeks (details below).

A recent study reveals that the first thing a man notices about a woman are her breasts, the symbol of femininity. Women are the first to sense it. Surveys indicate that 80% of women considered their breasts to be more important than any other part of their body.

Perfected by a French scientist, leading to the discovery of a new molecule, this new breast treatment immediately begins stimulating the development and firmness of their conjunctive tissues, giving you all the charms of a voluptuous chest.

- Even if you've never had large breasts...
- Even if you've had large breasts, but they were left sagging after giving birth, dieting, menopause...
- Even if you've tried every type of product...

For breakthroughs have occurred as much attention as this one. It was breakfast on all major television networks and featured in hundreds of articles published in every major newspaper and magazine, including Finest Star, Soir de France, La Parisien and Le Paris.

Breakthroughs like remarkable don't happen every day. The researchers behind this discovery devoted many years of their lives to creating and perfecting it.

■ Scientifically proven

It was then rigorously tested for 3 months on 1,000 women. Absolutely no exclusions were taken.

■ The results?

They exceeded the researchers' highest expectations.

Over 85% of the women who received the treatment saw their breasts grow larger and firmer.

More incredible is the fact that some women doubled their breast size within the first month while the rest easily achieved the same result in 2 to 3 months.

Where else have you ever seen a chest grow 2 inches in one month (and almost double in size), my mother couldn't believe her eyes.

Centela Busta MPK09 is a unique blend of marine and vegetable proteins. It is certified to be hormone-free and chemical-free. It uses latest-generation plant extracts, namely sage, horsetail, olive, centella asiatica, kola, elastin as well as FENUGREEK, which boosts by up to 13 times the effectiveness of the best treatments known today. FENUGREEK slows the skin's aging process, strengthens muscles, and is especially effective in restoring volume to undernourished conjunctive tissue. Centela Busta MPK09 soothes and nourishes skin, giving breasts a firm appearance, thanks to its revolutionary plant-derived molecule.

2 This molecule compensates for the natural weakening of supporting tissue and promotes the reconstruction of elastic fibers. It also assists in increasing the strength and resiliency of cutaneous tissue. Thus, it is a cell regenerator which lends a youthful and toned appearance to the skin covering the breast. This molecule can act on both skin and muscle, two key elements in the good health of your breasts.

■ Fast results

Very fast. Within 2 to 3 weeks a significant change in size and firmness may be noted. Frequently, breasts are seen to grow by 1 to 1" inches — in the very first week. In certain cases, as you shall discover, the maximum effectiveness of the treatment will be visible at the end of the 2nd or 3rd week. Be prepared to admire your new natural and permanent charm, achieved without surgery or painful pills. And look forward to impressing family, friends, co-workers and everyone you meet with your new charm.

It's all up to you. Do you want the shape you've never had? Do you want to become one of those attractive women who can choose to either appear with their charm and beauty? Naturally, easily, and quickly? Without any other subterfuge... Then you'll agree to mail Vanessa Durel's quick-result plan.

As she relaxes in her own words: "I thought my case was hopeless."

Today she's the happiest woman on Earth. The following description will tell you exactly how she successfully doubled her breast size.

■ How to use Centela Busta

Place 10 drops of Centela Busta MPK09 on your breasts. To help your skin absorb the product, dermatologists recommend using a circular massage, from the base of the breast all the way up to the neck. Then lightly cap the nipples with your fingertips. Repeat every day or twice.

■ Is Centela Busta MPK09 completely safe?

This rejuvenating treatment is a natural cream. In fact, new greasy formula is quickly absorbed by the skin.

It contains no chemicals, hormones or harmful animal products. It causes no side-effects even if you take medication or birth-control pills. Centela Busta is completely safe and brings lasting results. So go ahead and try Centela Busta with full peace of mind.

MINNESOTA FAMILY GLOWS IN DARK – BUT MOM HAS LOST HER SHINE!

MINNEAPOLIS — The family that glows in the dark is confounded by the fact that mother Marge Clayton has lost her glow!

By MIKE FARMER
Weekly World News

"The doctors could never tell me why I started glowing and now they can't explain why I stopped," says perplexed Mrs. Clayton. "My husband Frank and my son Terry are glowing brighter than ever but I've become as dull as mud — and it makes me feel like I'm not even part of the family."

Mrs. Clayton had never glowed in the dark before the day her son was born in 1994. But immediately after the birth, she noticed her skin was becoming whiter and her husband Frank seemed to develop a sheen.

"A nurse at the hospital said Terry was the whitest, brightest baby she had ever seen," she says. "And when we took him home, we noticed that all three of us were literally glowing in the dark.

"It was a little bit frightening at first. We were tested for environmental poisoning or to see if we were radioactive. But none of the tests showed anything."

Now Mrs. Clayton who declined to be photographed for this story, wishes she had her glow back.

"I kind of got used to it," she says. "With Frank and Terry glowing, I feel like an outsider in my own family."

Read why celebs SHOULDN'T name their kids!

HOLLYWOOD — Have today's celebrities gone mad? Judging from the names they give their children, the answer is yes!

Sharon Stone named her new son Roan, pronounced Ash, wrestler-turned-actor The Rock is calling his little girl simply "Pebbles" Alexandra and Cindy Crawford, who's pregnant with her second child, named her first kid Presley.

Not to be outdone, Sharon Stone named her son Roan, singer Meshach Hadu calls her son Seven, and Kathryn Hill has a child named Xion.

There are a few celebs still willing to give their children normal names, however. Among them are Matt Lauer, who named his twin son Jack, and Jodie Foster, whose first-born is named Charlie.

CAN YOU KEEP A SECRET?

NEW YORK — Hey, can you be trusted with a secret? Here's a quiz that'll tell you how tight-lipped you are.

It was prepared for Weekly World News readers by psychologist Dr. Walker O'Connell.

Simply answer each question as honestly as you possibly can, then turn the page upside down to check the scoring and analysis which follows.

1. A good friend tells you he is having an extramarital affair. You're also a good friend of the deceived mate. Do you hold your tongue? (A) Yes (B) No.

2. Would you tell your mate about all your premarital romances? (A) No (B) Yes.

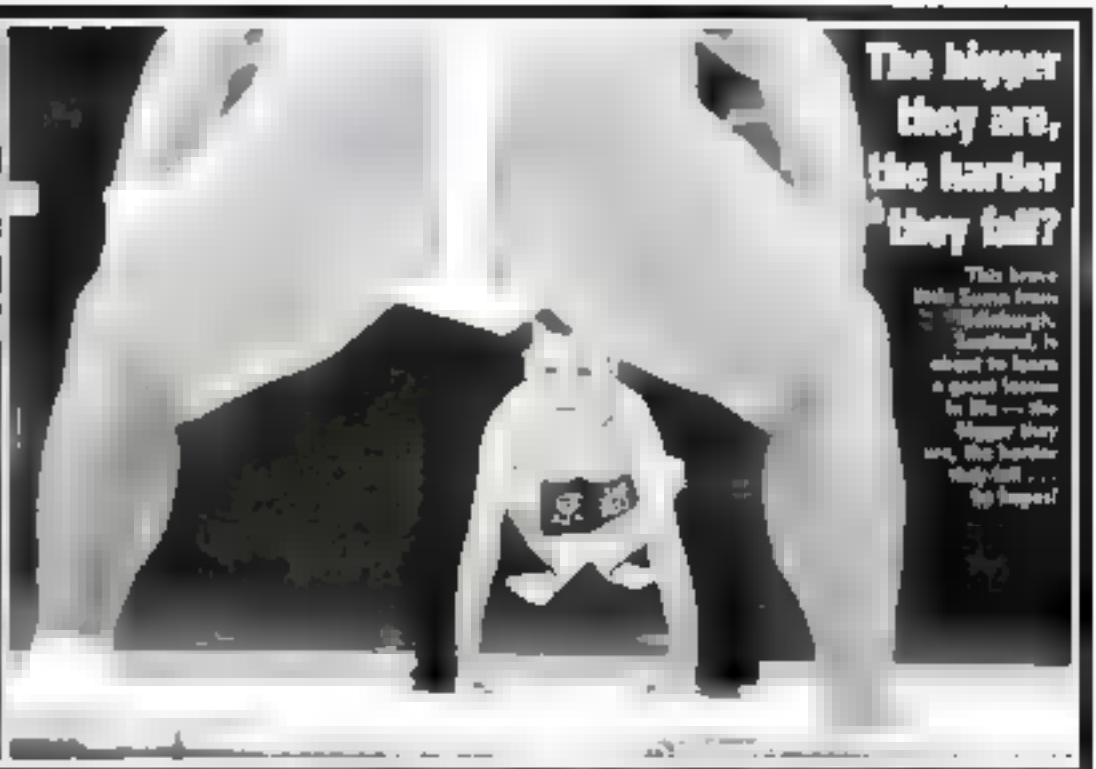
Teens party all night — inside a lousy hint

PARIS — More than 350 teenage party crashers took over a private gathering for interns at a psychiatric hospital, turning it into a wild and crazy "rave party," with dancing and earsplitting techno-music while patients slept nearby.

One of the interns apparently leaked information about a gathering planned for about 30 employees, and hundreds of young people jammed inside the Sainte-Anne Hospital for a drug-and-booze-fueled rave party, a news agency quoted a spokesman as saying.

The Sainte-Anne spokesman praised the security staff for shutting the gates that before even more partygoers — alerted by an e-mail message — could crash the festivities.



The bigger they are, the harder they fall?

This brave little Scottie from [illegible], Scotland, is about to learn a great lesson in life — the bigger they are, the harder they fall . . . by leaps!

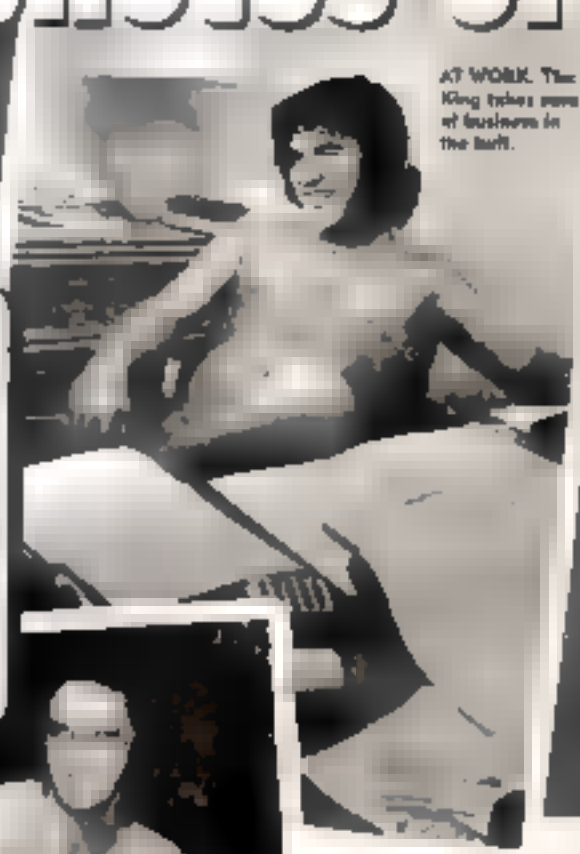
More nude photos of Elvis found!

AT PLAY. Elvis paddles around in a canoe.



AT WORK. The King takes care of business in the buff.

Historian comes forward with new photos of The King naked as a jaybird

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A previously unseen cache of nude pictures of Elvis Presley has been discovered after earlier disclosure that The King was photographed romping in a hotel lobby in the buff.

Music historian Jerry Bulenok told Elvis Fans Forever magazine that a former groupie who accompanied the rock n roll icon on cross-state naked treks collected more than a dozen pictures of The King in his birthday suit.

JERZY BULENOK

Elvis was a closet nudist and loved to shock his pompous, then strip off with a few trusted friends so they could prance around in the sunshine ... and be altogether. Bulenok outlined where and when he strapped down because if news about his bare bum escapades ever leaked out it would kill him with its fans.

Bulenok declared it seemed Elvis thought that because he's [illegible] these were about his wild pad hanging around nude ranch and schooling naked with The King.

But one appears to show the pelvic [illegible] with Elvis as a [illegible] and standing at the [illegible] altogether and standing at the [illegible]

[illegible] about Elvis [illegible] a serious [illegible] up on paperwork at his desk [illegible] or [illegible] that [illegible] people, [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] suddenly [illegible] all his clothes in public.

"Elvis was getting too careless and wild," Bulenok told the magazine. "And we're not dumb. We've learned to [illegible] around in public naked as a jaybird, the cops [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] with his cronies."

Bulenok admittedly [illegible] people to make big bucks on the naked Elvis collection, [illegible] from the proud mother and sole [illegible] European rights to the pictures [illegible] retained earlier by the figurines.

And the music historian said that after publication of the newly discovered pictures in Weekly World News, the others will probably be auctioned on the Internet.

Ed Anger's letter to Osama bin Laden

Let's get it on!

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS

Osama bin Laden
c/o General Consulate of Afghanistan
360 Lexington Ave., 11th Floor
New York, NY 10017

Dear Osama,

Listen up, you lily-livered piece of crap — if you haven't already been sent on a one-way trip to Hell by some brave Marine's M-16 rifle or a nuclear bomb from the belly of an Air Force flyboy's B-1 Bomber.

Anger's the name and tak-bi-kin's the game.

That's right, fool. Let's settle this thing once and for all, just me and you.

I'm not the young buck I was when we charged up Pork Chop Hill in Korea back in '52. And I've got a steel plate in my head as a little souvenir from that blood-soaked battlefield.

But I've still got my Marine uniform hanging in the closet and an M-1 rifle that's oiled and ready to go.

As that late, great American hero John "Duke" Wayne used to say, "I'm gonna finish what you started, Pilgrim, and it ain't going to be a pretty sight."

So how about me and you, one on one, weapons of your choice. Winner take all. You win and you can hang Ed Anger's head from the highest terrible mound you can find. I win and what's left of your "terror club" buys hot dogs, hamburgers and apple pie for every man, woman and child in America for life.

What say we meet at high noon on October 11, one month from the day you became Public Enemy No. 1, in Manhattan — I think you know the spot — and settle this thing the old-fashioned way: mano a mano.

If you're too yellow to come out of your hole, dang it-ooh, we can handle that, too.

American warplanes will hit you like 20,000 bats out of Hell and our fighting men and women will pour over your borders like hornets.

It'll make Armageddon look like a Sunday School picnic, you cave-dwelling, knuckle-dragging lunatic.

I'll be waiting to hear from you.

God Bless America,

Ed Anger

Turn a 'bad hair day' into a 'good hair life'!

NEW YORK — If you feel like tearing your hair out because it's frizzy, coarse or baby-fine, don't despair.

"A few simple tips can tame [illegible] and easily," assures Gordon Nelson, international creative director of the giant Regis beauty salon chain.

Here's how to lick five types of unruly hair secondary to Nelson:

THE FRIZZIES — "Frizzy hair is simply dirt that has separated and [illegible] and needs moisture. To treat the problem, use a top-quality moisturizing mask after [illegible]

"If hair still needs more control, switch to a leave-in conditioner which keeps moisture locked into the hair after it's washed. And use a blow-dryer with a diffuser — it keeps fine strands from separating."

CHARGE HAIR — "A deep-penetrating moisture treatment will put softness and bounce back into hair [illegible] keep away from [illegible] styling or exposure to sun and wind. Also, apply a silicone gel after [illegible] and before blow-drying."

BABY-FINE HAIR — "Sometimes fine hair can appear limp and stringy due to residue from styling aids like gel and hair spray, which weigh down the hair. The treatment is to give your hair a weekly thorough cleansing with a clarifying shampoo.

"Avoid heavy conditioners, oils and leave-in moisturizers. And when you style with a blow-dryer, use a brush to lift the hair and aim the [illegible] air at [illegible]."

COWLICKS — "To tame a cowlick — a tuft of hair growing in a different direction than the rest of the hair — opt for a hairstyle with some length at the site of the cowlick. The weight of the hair will help flatten it.

"Another approach is to style your mane ear all over, [illegible] to blend in with the rest of your hair."

BORING BANGS — "You can jazz up ho-hum bangs by having your stylist cut them irregularly — leaving some pieces shorter, some longer.

"When styling, use a drop of [illegible] to squeeze a small section of bangs into a point at the end. Pull down over your forehead and allow to dry naturally — then gently rub a comb through your bangs for a romantic effect."

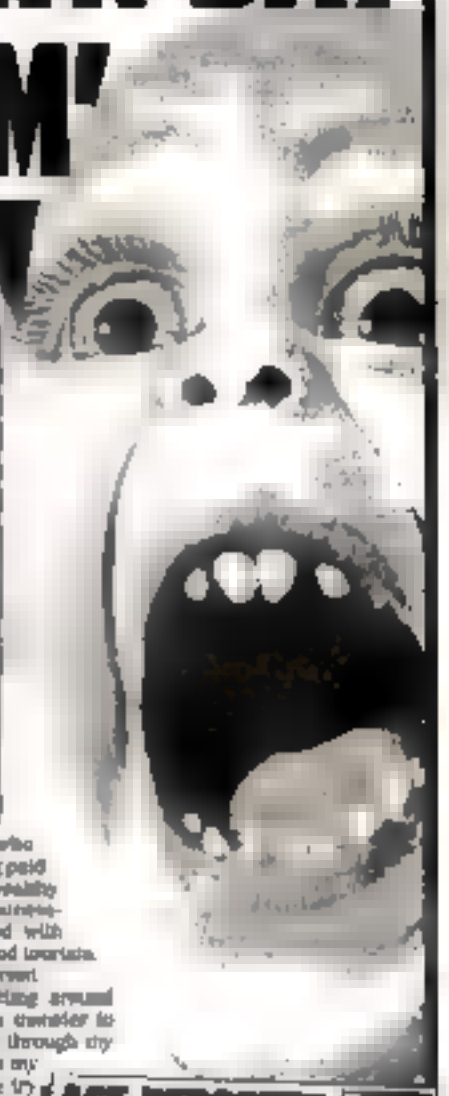
'I WILL HUNT DOWN BAT BOY AND KILL HIM'

. . . bounty hunter vows!



BATON ROUGE, La. — "I'm going to bring Bat Boy down with one clean shot to the head. Then I'm gonna have him stuffed and mounted over my fireplace."

Those are the chilling words of legendary bounty hunter Jim Stubbard, who has bagged more than 100 escaped felons and bail jumpers in his long career.

The grizzled Baton Rouge native claims he is the best qualified person to capture the elusive half-bat, half-human creature, as he pitched a New York City theater owner a play based on his life.

Red-faced FBI officials admit that Bat Boy somehow snuck unnoticed into the Union Square Theatre during a 250 undercover officers watched Bat Boy: The Musical in its entirety and slipped out during the curtain calls.

"From what I hear, he was laughing and shouting all the way through the show — disturbing folks next to him who'd paid good money to see it," says Stubbard. "Well, he won't be laughing when he's looking down the barrel of my .32."

Law enforcement officials have been desperately trying to catch Bat Boy since he escaped from a heavily guarded Chicago hospital several weeks ago.

As reported in Weekly World News, doctors have warned that unless the strange creature gets an experimental drug he was receiving at the hospital, he could become unstable and dangerous. And indeed, since his dramatic escape, Bat Boy has been linked to a bizarre series of attacks in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Texas, including a frightening blitz on a chicken farm in which 12 hens were found drained of blood.

Authorities are calling for calm and say "everything humanly possible" is being done to apprehend the hairy, pointy-eared freak, who was found in a West Virginia cave in 1992.

But TV reports stating that Bat Boy was seen just days ago in Louisiana have sparked widespread panic and citizens are demanding that it's time to take the law into their own hands.

Stubbard, who says he's being paid by a group of wealthy Louisiana businessmen concerned with public safety and tourism, agrees 100 percent.

"I'm not sitting around waiting for this monster to come crashing through my window to suck my blood or maybe try and screw around with my teenage daughter," says the marksman.

"I'm will hunt down Bat Boy and kill him — for good."

Next week: NEW PHOTOS OF BAT BOY!

ACE REPORTER REX WOLFE IS ON THE CASE!

Weekly World News reporter Rex Wolfe has joined Nick Nolan, Vanessa Bush, Jean Toby and a crack team of 23 other reporters and photographers in a desperate race to find and interview Bat Boy before unfriendly reporters can get their hands on him.

If you want the latest word on Bat Boy, there's only one place to get it — right here, in WEEKLY updates... ONLY in Weekly World News.

Rebel teens to aid Bat Boy

NEW ORLEANS — A band of big-hearted teenagers in the Big Easy has vowed to protect Bat Boy from bounty hunter Jim Stubbard.

"That guy has absolutely no right to kill Bat Boy," blasted a 15-year-old member of the group, who asked that her name not be used. "Bat Boy is a living, breathing creature and he has feelings, just like you and me."

The group, which calls itself the Committee to Save Bat Boy, plans to use every dirty trick in the book to keep Stubbard off the hair-like youngster's trail.

"We're going to plant so many phony Bat Boy tracks and clues leading to so many directions, that bounty hunter will run around in circles for months," said the teen.

...AND YOU CAN HELP!

The best ways to help keep Bat Boy out of the gun sights of bounty hunter Jim Stubbard: The young committee members are asking that you keep your eyes peeled for any sightings of Bat Boy. If you see anything suspicious, such as a strange creature digging holes in your yard, rummaging in your garbage can or school, "If you spot Bat Boy, please don't try to capture him yourself," says the teen. "Call us immediately and we'll send our trained experts to handle the situation."

Bat Boy has been spotted in Louisiana, Missouri, Arkansas and Texas, including planting false clues that Bat Boy has been in your area, such as tiny footprints in your yard, workshop or school. "If you

GRANNY MISTAKES SEX DOLLS FOR ANGELS

. . . and dies trying to follow inflatable floozies into Heaven!

ATLANTA — A grandmother was killed in a 14-car pileup caused when she leapt from her car in a failed attempt to ascend into Heaven.

The bizarre incident began when Mrs. Geraldine Saintee, 68, witnessed what appeared to be a dozen angels floating up to the sky. Unknown to her, the "angels" were actually helium-filled blow-up sex dolls that had fallen from the back of a truck.

Mrs. Saintee climbed through the sunroof of her car screaming, "He has come for us at last! Thank God and the heavenly hosts he's here," before toppling onto the busy Bush Way, according to shocked witnesses.

By DRAKE ANDERS

Fourteen other people suffered minor injuries in the chain reaction crash reportedly set off when a thin man in a white robe with long dark hair and a beard accidentally released the dolls over the busy highway.

Everett Saintee, 70, told a radio reporter that he tried to slow his car when his wife began screaming that she had seen Jesus — and that the souls of the righteous were already ascending to Heaven.

But he was powerless to stop her when she scrambled excitedly through the sunroof "so Jesus would see her and lift her to Heaven with the other souls."

Mrs. Saintee was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident, which tied up traffic for hours in a rural area.

The mix-up started when a canvas covering the blow-up sex dolls Madison Gromik, 38, was transporting to a costume party on his pickup truck came loose and began floating away, according to the on-the-scene report.

Gromik, who was dressed as Jesus, pulled over to the outside and was raising his arms in frustration when the Saintee car drove by.

"People always told me I looked like Jesus," Gromik said. "But I never thought anyone would mistake me for the real Messiah. If I really was Jesus, I certainly wouldn't have been driving a rusty old pickup truck. I always figured he'd come back driving a BMW."

Gromik reports that 10 of the blow-up dolls were eventually recovered. "It's a miracle I didn't lose more of them. I guess someone was watching over me that day."

"My wife has been waiting all her life for the rapture," Saintee told the reporter. "But she always thought it would be with angels, not blow up dolls."

"Now she's gone to stay with God forever — in His glorious kingdom in the sky."

INFLATABLE sex dolls, accidentally released, float across the sky.

[illegible] charges [illegible] for her lovin' — and I'm going broke!

Dear Dotti: After two years of marriage I am at my wit's end. My wife, who was sweet and unassuming before we tied the knot, has gotten so money-hungry that she actually makes me pay her $30 for a single love session. For a grand total of $200-$250 per week. I don't know how other couples handle sex, Dotti, but this seems ridiculous to me. Is it normal for a housewife to charge her husband for sex? If not, what should I do? — Broke in Portland

Dear Broke: If you don't know whether it's proper for wives to charge husbands for sex, bite the bullet and pay up!

How can I con parents into paying [illegible] rent?

Dear Dotti: I'm 22 years old and have the greatest parents in the world. When I was living with them, they were constantly nag[illegible] me about getting a job. Things got so bad that I moved into my own apartment. Now they refuse to pay the rent and the landlord is threatening to kick me out if I don't come up with some cash fast. How can I make my parents see the light? — Angry in Marietta

Dear Angry: Your parents saw the light the day they kicked you out of the house. And no amount of ROME — A emotional new sex-made virus boosts the IQ of humans worldwide ... Lasting peace in the Middle East is achieved when Israelis and Arabs alike join a powerful new religion ... NASA discovers Heaven in a supermassive black hole at the center of the Milky Way!

Those are just three of the startling, top-secret predictions made by top psychic and metaphysician Dr. Andy Rebo, who is world renown for his uncanny ability to see months and even years into the future.

"The closer we get to the end of the century, the more we live in fear," explains Dr. Rebo. "In fact, I've gone out of my way to provide them with predictions that are not just fascinating, but fun and even positive.

"It takes all sorts of events, both big and small, both important and not-so-important, to make up the fabric of our lives.

"And even in our darkest hours," he adds, "there's not just a ray of light, but many things we just have to laugh at."

Here are Dr. Rebo's predictions for Winter 1993 — and beyond:

Woman blasted out of shower by lightning bolt!

PARIS — Lorraine Detmer received the shock of her life when a bolt of lightning soared her out of the shower and onto the bathroom floor!

And she might be dead today were it not for the quick thinking of an electric company operator.

Lorraine, 32, was in the shower when lightning struck her house, traveled along steel pipes and through a metal shower attachment. The bolt struck her in the chest, throwing her to the floor.

Lorraine's husband, Louis, was on the phone with the electric company when the lightning struck. He slammed down the phone and ran to Lorraine's aid, but when he tried to call 911, the line was dead.

Thankfully, the operator Louis had been talking to heard the commotion before Louis hung up, and called for assistance. Lorraine was treated for burns and electric shock.

Pear-flavored beer was a British favorite!

MANCHESTER, England — Beer lovers should be glad they didn't live in prehistoric times, most likely. They would've missed out on such tasty hops and barley!

That's the finding of archaeologists who recently discovered what they believe to be a 1,000-year-old pub and brewery in the Neolithic village of Skara Brae on the remote Orkney Islands off the coast of Scotland.

Always up for a new experiment, scientists used an ancient recipe to whip up a batch of deep-flavored ale. Chief brewer Martyn Dingley of Manchester University called the beer "quite delicious."

As for us, we'll stick with Old Milwaukee.

AMERICA'S SEXIEST PSYCHIC

Is Marilyn Monroe speaking to me?

Dear Serena: Please don't think I'm crazy but I think Marilyn Monroe is trying to speak to me from the afterlife.

The voice sounds just like Marilyn's did in her movies. It comes to me just before I fall asleep at night but when I try to talk back it goes away. This usually happens two or three times a week. Is this really Marilyn Monroe talking or is some other spirit playing a joke on me? — Movie Fan in Saginaw [illegible] it is the spirit of Marilyn Monroe that wants to talk to you. But at this time you shouldn't try to talk back. Marilyn's spirit is very shy. She would like to talk to you before you begin two-way communications. Fly the lady who has picked you because you reminded her of her mother.

Dear Serena: Every time I drive by a jail I break out in a cold sweat. I can't understand this because I'm a law-abiding citizen and have never been in jail. Was I a convict in a former life? — Frightened in Pasadena

Dear Frightened: You were not a convict in a former life — but you were a prison guard. You have such a fear of jail because you were once taken hostage in a prison riot. I have cast a spell that should take care of your fears.

Dear Serena: I am supposed to fly to Hawaii for a two-week vacation but I'm afraid the plane will crash. I have already paid for the trip but unless you can tell me the plane is safe I'm going to stay home. Please tell me what I should do. — Undecided in Roosevelt

Dear Undecided: Please go to Hawaii. Not only will the flight be a safe one but you will meet a very handsome man or a man who will one day be your husband. Have a wonderful vacation.

Dear Serena: I have always been very fortunate to have a guardian angel looking over me — but now I feel that angel has turned into a demon.

I had never been seriously injured before six weeks ago when I was in a traffic accident at college. When I finally got out of the hospital I fell down the steps at my dorm. I have also burned myself and almost cut off one of my fingers. Why has my guardian angel [illegible] against me? — Hurting in West Lafayette

Dear Hurting: Your guardian angel is letting these terrible things happen to you because you have let yourself get mixed up in crack cocaine. The accidents will continue to occur until you stop using drugs.

Dear Serena: All my co-workers say I look like Adolf Hitler. I'm not a bad person and I have even shaved off my mustache but not a day goes by without someone at work saying, "Hey, Adolf," or something like that. I'm starting to think I was Hitler in a former life. Please tell me I wasn't. — Worried in Pemberton

Dear Worried: You were not Adolf Hitler in a former life. In fact, you were an American GI who lauded many soldiers' lives with your bravery. I think it's strange that your co-workers are so mean to you but that will all stop when you are promoted to vice president of your company next month.

Dear Serena: I got a trampoline for my birthday but I never jump on it because I'm afraid I'll break my leg. Do you think it's safe? — Nervous in Gainesville

Dear Nervous: Move the trampoline 20 feet further [illegible] your house — [illegible] the apple tree — and it will be safe. It's not on level ground now and you would indeed be injured if you tried to jump on it.

Dear Serena: Can you see where my extra pair of glasses are? My eyesight is bad enough that I always make sure I have a backup pair in case something happens to the first, but I can't find them. I can't afford to buy a new pair right now. — Four Eyes in Twin Falls [illegible] Four Eyes: They're in the glove compartment of your car, beneath the maps.

THIS WEEK'S SIX LUCKIEST LOTTO NUMBERS

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS has purchased exclusive rights to the world's most powerful computer — and we use it to pick the six luckiest lottery numbers every week!

The Swiss-built computer, called Eagle Seven, has the ability to calculate which lottery numbers are most likely to come up each week, based on previous performance and established statistics. The numbers are good for the week Weekly World News is on the newsstand.

The computer scans all numbers selected in lotteries across America over the past year to provide a statistical base for predicting future results. More value is given to the most recently selected numbers.

Using all available data, the Weekly World News exclusive: The WORLD'S BIGGEST CROSSWORD!

TERRIFIED CAMPERS FLEE TRASH-TALKING GRIZZLY BEAR!

TRASH-TALKING bear tore up the campsite and swore like a sailor!

PORTLAND, Oreg. — Two terrified campers say they were forced to abandon their truck and camping gear and run for their lives through five miles of thick forest to escape a tree-tossing, trash-talking grizzly bear!

"I thought for sure we were going to die," says Robert Catal, 31, who was camping with his girlfriend, Irene Jenkins, 30, in the shadow of Oregon's Mount Hood when they were attacked by what the couple swears was a talking, 9-foot grizzly bear.

Recalls Catal, "Irene and I were making lunch over an open fire when the bear sauntered into our campsite area. I was about to shoo it away with a shovel when it stood on its hind legs and said in a weird, inhuman voice, 'You're on my turf, suckers, and now it's payback time!' We were stunned. I wouldn't believe it if I hadn't seen and heard it for myself."

Catal and Jenkins watched in stunned disbelief as the huge bear pushed their truck on its side as if it were a child's toy and ripped their tent to ribbons with its razor-sharp claws.

"The whole time, the bear was talking trash," says a deeply shaken Jenkins. "It kept calling us vile names, and made obscene references to our mothers and families. I thought I was having a horrible nightmare."

TERRIFIED campers Greg and Stephanie McKay met up with a trash-talking grizzly

After the bear destroyed their campsite, it ripped a tree out of the ground and turned toward the couple with a murderous gleam in its eyes.

"It said, 'You're next!'" recalls Catal with a shudder, "and that's when Irene and I made a mad dash into the wilderness. I knew that if we stayed, we were as good as dead.

"The bear threw the tree at us as if it were a spear, missing us by just a couple of inches. Then the foul-mouthed grizzly chased us for miles before finally giving up and ambling back into the woods. The whole time it chased us, it kept making vicious threats against us and Hours later, the exhausted couple was picked up on a desolate gravel road by a group of hunters, who took them to the nearest ranger's station.

"We told the rangers our story, but they just laughed," says Jenkins. "One of them even asked us if we were on drugs. No one took us seriously; they didn't even write a report."

Two days later, Catal and Jenkins insisted that the rangers accompany them back to their campsite, where their destroyed property lay just as they had described it.

"The rangers attributed the whole thing to a band of the area, but that's not true," says Catal. "It's frightening because the next campers to encounter this bear [illegible] not be so lucky. It's mean and angry, and it's just a matter of time before it kills someone."

Astonishingly, this isn't the first time campers have been terrorized by a talking bear. Fifteen years ago, Weekly World News reported the bizarre case of Greg and Stephanie McKay who also encountered a talking bear while camping in the Cascade Mountains several miles north of their home in Ellensburg, Wash.

GREAT FOR COLLEGE KIDS!

Fall asleep instantly

. . . no matter how much coffee you've guzzled!

By PAT WELLS

GENEVA — You can fall asleep as soon as your head hits the pillow — even if you're a chronic insomniac and guzzle coffee like there's no tomorrow — by following some simple drug-free steps that worked in a groundbreaking new study.

Researchers screened out the many habits of people who have insomnia by asking them questions before the experiment began. Then they measured the patients' average number of minutes it took to sleep. After a treatment program, they found that the average insomniac fell asleep in half the time.

The program, described in the April issue of Behavior Therapy, was developed by Dr. Jack D. Edinger and colleagues at the Durham Veterans Medical Center and Duke University Medical Center.

Here are some of the steps that helped the insomniacs:

● Don't go to bed unless you are sleepy.

● Get out of bed if you can't fall asleep within 20 minutes. Read, watch TV or do some other relaxing activity until you feel sleepy, then go back to bed.

● Use your bed only for sleeping and sex. Don't read, watch TV or do other activities in bed.

● Get up at the same time every day, no matter how much you slept.

● Don't take naps.

● Don't exercise within four hours of bedtime.

● Don't consume caffeine within six hours of bedtime.

● Don't drink alcohol before bedtime.

● Don't smoke cigarettes before bedtime or during the night.

● Don't eat a heavy meal before bedtime.

● Don't worry in bed about things you have to do the next day. Make a list before you go to bed.

● Don't try to force yourself to sleep.

● Don't look at the clock during the night.

● Don't take sleeping pills.

● Don't read in bed with the light on if your partner is trying to sleep.

● Don't go to bed angry. Settle arguments before bedtime to avoid problems falling asleep.

● Don't drink coffee, tea, soda or other caffeine-containing drinks after lunch.

● Don't smoke cigarettes or drink alcohol before bedtime. Nicotine and alcohol disrupt sleep, say researchers.

Teen grows nose on his arm!

SYRACUSE — A teenager who had to have his nose amputated when he lurched it on an electric fence has grown a new one — on his arm!

Physicians implanted a rubber tube in the 16-year-old's arm and grew skin around it. The new nose, which took 10 months to create, was then transplanted to the boy's face.

Doctors believe the youngster, known only as Malik, will be able to breathe through the new organ and perhaps even enjoy the sense of smell.

«HERE'S THE STORY OF MY LAST DIET»

«I've always suffered because of my figure. I've been dieting since I was 17 and now I'm 38 and a mother of 3. I tried any diet that I could get my hands on without success. After trying every diet on the market, I thought I was going to be condemned to stay fat. Then in April 2000, a movie star revealed on a T.V. show her weight loss secret. Later I've found a Pectin-Slim ad in a magazine and ordered the product. I didn't know it would be my last diet. After the 1st week, I lost 13 pounds. I never had to go on a diet during the next 27 days. I lost an additional 27 pounds. Today I'm still at 117 pounds. I now realize that we shouldn't get discouraged or give up on our dreams. I've made it with Pectin-Slim.»

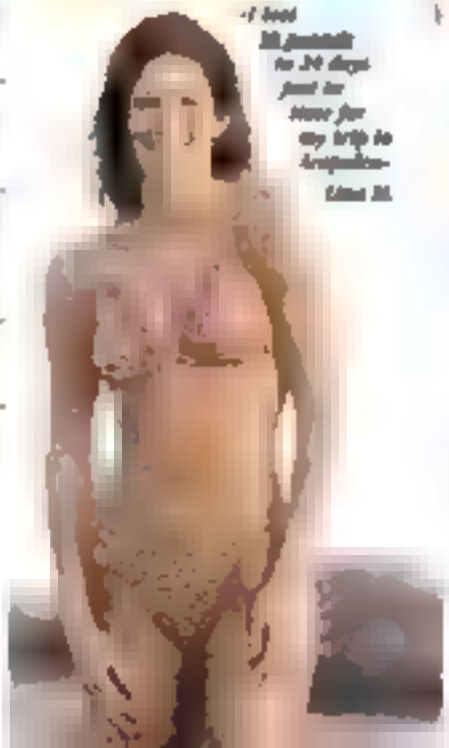
1 Apple Pectin is an energized enzyme that can digest up to 900 times its own weight in fat. That's why it's the best fat blocker ever.

2 Apple Pectin attacks thousands of fatty cells 24 hours a day. These are devoured and channelled by your system, day after day to eliminate unsightly bulges.

3 The Superactivated Pectin-Slim tablets are 100% natural. Like an apple in extension. It's the concentration that makes it so powerful. 7 tablets contain as much active ingredients as what you would find in 28 fresh apples.

4 Forget about prescription. In no way can Pectin-Slim harm your health. It works on the food you eat, not on your system.

5 Superactivated Pectin-Slim tablets eliminate fat for effortless weight loss. Some results as: • Jogging 10 miles a week = an hour of aerobics per day • 15 hours of swimming or cycling a week.



"I lost 38 pounds in 28 days just in time for my trip to Acapulco."

World exclusive transcript had an exorcism in 199[illegible]!

CALCUTTA, India — In a worldwide exclusive, Weekly World News has obtained the actual transcript of a shocking 30-minute exorcism involving the most unlikely of subjects — Mother Teresa!

As reported in newspapers [illegible], the ancient [illegible] was successfully performed by the archbishop of Calcutta as the saintly nun lay gravely ill in a hospital [illegible] months [illegible] death in 1997. But Weekly [illegible] first media outlet to obtain the [illegible]-person, blow-by-blow [illegible].

By TRACY CASTELLI
Weekly World News

Archbishop Rosario Stracci says he resorted to exorcism because the sister, whose work among the poor of Calcutta earned her a Nobel Prize, was "[illegible], strangely" and couldn't sleep.

"I thought she might be getting attacked by the Devil," the Brazilian clergyman told reporters.

Since the archbishop's startling revelation, the Vatican has been busy backpedaling, insisting that Mother Teresa was never in any serious spiritual danger.

But a Vatican source who leaked a transcript of the terrifying man-versus-demon encounter says the confrontation was like something out of a Hollywood horror flick.

"Church officials are trying to make it sound like Mother Teresa's exorcism was a very quiet, civilized affair, but believe me, this wasn't tea with the queen," said the source, who spoke under the condition of anonymity. "It was a very ugly, very frightening struggle between good and evil, as an exorcism always is.

"Mother Teresa exhibited outrageous behavior totally unlike her kindly normal self."

Latin and several other languages, including Hindi, Italian, ancient Babylonian and Latin backward.

Stracci: My dearly beloved sister in Christ, are you being harassed by the Devil?

Mother Teresa: I'm being harassed by someone, you! Leave me alone!

Stracci: Come, Teresa, you must draw upon your faith and join me in fighting the adversary. The people are depending on you to return to health and guide them.

Mother Teresa: (Spits) Baloney! This con gig is for the birds. How'd you like to be called the "Saint of the Gutters"? Leave me alone!

Stracci: I shall not leave your side until the evil spirit vacates your body.

Mother Teresa: Oh, f*ck you. F*ck off—ing f*ck-o.

Stracci: The power of Satan is strong within you. You are speaking in tongues!

Mother Teresa: My tongue is fine. Nothing's wrong with me. I'm just a little dehydrated. I need a drink!

Stracci: Try a little of this . . .

Mother Teresa: Thanks. (spitting) Aaaaaaargh! My mouth is on fire! I wanted some scotch!

Stracci: Also, spawn of Lucifer!

Mother Teresa: (More [illegible] asked for it. Ha, hey. Ever see this one?

Stracci: Stop that.

Mother Teresa: Stop what?

Stracci: Stop doing that with your head.

Mother Teresa: Never see the back of an old lady's head before?

Brush your teeth with strawberries

. . . and other unusual ways to look your best!

MIAMI — Want to look your best? Use ice cubes, strawberries and a plastic spoon!

That's the advice of top beauty experts, who offer these offbeat tricks of the trade:

● Brush your teeth with strawberries. Mash several fresh or frozen berries into a paste. Apply the paste to your toothbrush and brush. "The strawberry juice makes your teeth whiter, while the seeds clean in between your teeth," says celebrity beauty expert Joan Gabert at Eternal Salon in Palm Beach, Fla.

● Perk up your face with an ice cube. First thing in the morning, rub a cube over your moist face.

"This will also tighten your pores," says skin care expert Monica Mitchell, whose celebrity clients include Martha Hunter and Carrie Fisher.

● Cool your eyelashes with a plastic spoon. Hold the spoon behind your upper lashes. Then brush on your mascara, lifting the spoon back behind the lashes as you do it.

"It's how celebrated stars as Cybill Shepherd, Bridget Bako-Anderson, who makes up models for many top fashion magazines.

● Brush mascara on your eyebrows. It will control the hairs and keep them in place, as well as darken them.

"Eyebrow pencils don't fully cover lighter hairs mixed in with darker eyebrow hairs," points out Gabert, whose famous clients include Zsa Zsa Gabor.

● Refrigerate your creams and moisturizers. They'll last longer, work better — and feel cool and refreshing on your skin.

● Apply a moisturizing cream to your feet, wrap them in plastic wrap and leave it on overnight. "In the morning your feet will feel soft and revitalized," proclaims Gabert.

● Boil a few potato eyes your face to control acne. Peel the potato, then rub it on your face and neck. Leave the juice on for 20 minutes or until dry. Rinse with cold water.

RECYCLED CORPSES

Ground up body parts can be used to make roads, clothing, paper, pencils — and even computers!

SAN MARINO — Human bodies can be recycled into all sorts of practical items like shoes, toilet paper, toothbrushes, even telephones, a top researcher says!

Albert Gnusson, a leading environmentalist, is the champion for recycling corpses. "Every year millions of dead bodies are being needlessly buried in the ground, when instead they could be used to make such things as cheap clothes, paper, pencils, office buildings, even computers!" Gnusson says.

By DUKE DONOVAN
Sunday World Staff

Gnusson is proposing that people donate their bodies to charity after they die.

"Instead of carrying organ donor cards people will carry corpse donor cards," he predicts.

THIS toothbrush can easily be manufactured from human body parts.

Gnusson envisions a future in which human bones are ground up and used to make roads, sidewalks even materials for buildings.

"The human body is a wealth of natural resources," he says. "Human skin can be peeled off and used as cloth ing or blankets. People wear leather, after all, and that's nothing more than processed animal skin.

"Think of the pride people will feel when they are wearing their mother's flesh as a jacket. What better way to memorialize the memory of your loved ones than by having them made into the clothing you wear or mixed with the concrete in the foundation of your house!"

Gnusson notes that with human recycling, "You can keep your loved ones close to you forever instead of just burying them and forgetting about them."

Religious groups are strongly opposed to the idea of recycled people. Herbert Nordstrom of the Christians Against Human Recycling organization says: "People are not beer bottles that can be recycled endlessly. You only get one life, and then your time on this Earth is done. This cycle we speak of is a form the ghoulish practice of treating corpses dirtier than no better than body snatching."

Gnusson stresses that human recycling is strictly voluntary. "This is a chance for people to make the world a better place after they go and leave behind some practical items that can be used for generations to come."

"It is nature's way to recycle," he adds. "That's how the earth rejuvenates itself. It's what we call the circle of life, and it's all part of God's grand plan."

And Gnusson feels that plan can start be taken further. "Since people got used to the idea of recycled cadavers, there has even been some talk of using dead human flesh to make pastes and other foods. I hear people rave! is quite tasty."

WASTED RESOURCE: This stockpile of human skeletons could have been recycled and made into thousands of beds.

With the world's cemeteries rapidly running out of room Gnusson feels that human recycling is a natural alternative.

"I would gladly donate my body to make some child a nice bed," he says. "My skull would be a great bowling ball. The possibilities are unlimited. Anything is better than having corpses rot away in the ground as worm food."

Health: If you're getting sick and tired of dieting or a medical treatment that's been prescribed, don't give up just yet. It will probably

LIVE TO BE 100 ON BUTTS & BOURBON!

GENEVA — Want to live to be 100? Then get ready to hit the bottle — and smoke 'em if you got 'em, scientists say. Medical researchers have found that the newly discovered "Fountain of Youth" gene is activated by bourbon and cigarettes!

The broadest-ever study of people who've lived into their 100s confirms that the overwhelming majority share a gene that adds up to two decades of healthy life.

Surprisingly, a subset of centenarians have been found to be individuals regularly ingesting tobacco products and bourbon — while their siblings who shared the same gene but avoided booze, cigars and cigarettes generally died by their 70s.

"We were frankly astonished by these results," said Dr. Hans-Peter Hertzenpath, who led the team of State and German researchers.

"Although we all know of people who lived to be over 100 while refusing to give up their cigars and cigarettes, in comparison to similar Swiss citizens who don't smoke and drink, we found there's a health benefit to smoking or alcohol consumption.

"But our study clearly indicates that chemicals in bourbon and tobacco somehow trigger the longevity gene.

"Cigarettes and bourbon were never much cigarettes might have the fountain of youth gene but won't benefit from it. They treat them like it's years of each decades of life."

For the past few years, researchers around the world have been racing to find the master gene responsible for centenarians' longevity. Experts from Harvard, Yale and Texas A&M Universities Medical Center, among others, have been conducting DNA examinations of hundreds of people thought to exhibit the life-extending gene.

But two decades ago, a team led by Dr. Hertzenpath's team had produced the distinctive genetic marker, located on chromosome No. 4, now of the 25 humans have.

"We studied 1,200 people who were 100 or older and in every single blood sample we found the same rare gene," said Dr. Hertzenpath. And in a surprising 97 percent of the cases we found that they drank bourbon and smoked at least once a week."

It's more enlightening, we what the experts found when comparing 30 of the centenarians who had identical twins to their brothers and sisters.

"The twin who showed the longevity gene usually lived to be over 100. They ate the same bourbon and tobacco regularly," said the expert. "But in cases where the twin stayed away from those vices, fully half were dead by the age of 72."

Dr. Hertzenpath cautions that further research must be done before hard advice can be given to start smoking or gambling heavy if they don't do it already.

"But personally, I plan to stock up on bourbon and cigarettes," he said.

MEDICAL WARNING: Always consult your own trusted physician before making major changes in your diet or lifestyle.

EXTENDING your life into the 100s may take a lot of cigarettes and bourbon — but this man seems up for the task.

THIS guy wants to live forever and just might, say scientists

It may be difficult controlling your frustrations when your beloved is distracted and distant. Be understanding.

LEO

July 23 – Aug. 22

Travel lightly when approaching a co-worker with your suggestions for improving your shared work situations. It could seem like a criticism of their performance.

Be sure to make check-outs doubly before taking off on vacation. Forgotten items and foul-ups with reservations will bring frustration instead of the sought after relaxation.

VIRGO

Aug. 23 – Sept. 22

You're the only one who knows what's best for you right now, so trust your instincts. Take only those steps that are truly in your best interest. Don't listen to well-meant advice.

Keep your cool when an inquisitive friend becomes too busy and asks about your personal life. Make a fast quit!

Weekend travel will be pleasurable with a romantic encounter possible.

LIBRA

Sept. 23 – Oct. 22

Cooperation with others in financial affairs is emphasized. What appears as a problem today could turn out to be a blessing tomorrow. It is an opportunity to accomplish yourself.

Too many promises upset with old pals creates a tense situation for months. Make plans for intimate evenings for just you two. It will do wonders for your relationship.

SCORPIO

Oct. 23 – Nov. 21

You may be tempted to quarrel with everyone this week. Is it possible you're trying to do everything alone? Asking for help won't ruin your reputation.

Single and seeking Scorpios can get a phone call from a former friend, rekindling the romance fires.

Good news will come your way and you can expect a cash windfall or a raise!

SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 22 – Dec. 21

This is an auspicious time to make decisions regarding career investments or possibly a major real estate purchase.

A letter arrives with exciting and happy news.

Watch for a salary increase or bonus. A monetary reward or an unexpected windfall is indicated for lucky Sags.

Your sense of adventure could get you into trouble over the weekend.

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22 – Jan. 19

Competition is intense this week and challenges accelerate at a fast pace.

You can handle the pressure since air signs favor intuitive and perceptive persons paying off for the career-minded Capricorn.

Request your spouse's word for privacy, but be ready to be a good listener when the need to talk about a problem surfaces.

AQUARIUS

Jan. 20 – Feb. 18

Several excellent career opportunities present themselves to you this week.

Make a special effort to be sensitive to your mate's desires and goals, and make shared decisions after discovering options.

Social life picks up in delightful ways by week's end. An after-work surprise birthday party for a co-worker or a spur-of-the-moment outing is a possibility.

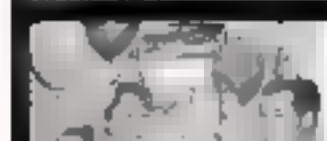
PISCES

Feb. 19 – Mar. 20

You may find yourself called upon to soothe and console friends as well as a relative who is troubled. It will be one person who appreciates this week.

There could also be upheaval in your personal life. If single, dates making discoveries or changes. Married folks should just wait for the cosmic storm to pass.

As the weekend, creative powers are heightened.



If your birthday is this week...

You are heading for a period of conflict and it will between you and your boss. The best

WIENER FISH HORROR

CHOMP!

28 fishermen lose their 'worms' as nature strikes back

DEADLY attacks by the piranha-like fish have caused the "wiener fish" its nickname.

By TOM MARSTON
Weekly World News

PAPUA, New Guinea — Fishermen are living in fear of a deadly "wiener fish" that attacks in the sneakiest and most horrifying manner imaginable — it bites off men's penises!

Twenty-eight men have already died to death after having their "working tackle" snapped off by a ferocious river fish related to the South American piranha. The men had waded into the Sepik River to fish and were relishing the cooling effects when the fiendish attacks occurred.

The primitive set-up dangling in the water they think it's an easy meal and they just chomp away," marine biologist Hugo Jaimes told news agencies.

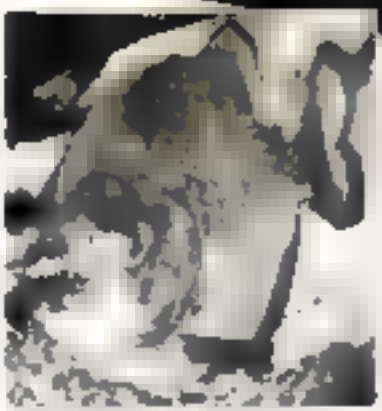
Jaimes reports that the killer fish zero in on a man's pelvic area and follow it right to its source. Then they sink their jaws in hard."

When these vicious fish clamp down with their teeth they are almost impossible to remove. Usually the only way to get rid of them is by amputating whatever part of the victim's body the fish has attached itself to.

Fishermen have died in the extremely slow and excruciatingly painful deaths.

Fisherman Pedro Santiago survived an attack by the wiener fish," but at the loss of his manhood. "I was fishing off my boat wearing some baggy shorts," Santiago said, "and I reeled in one of the piranhas. It was flopping around on the deck, hopping about with a hook in its mouth. Suddenly it leaped up and grabbed my crutch. It was the most painful thing I have ever felt."

The fish escaped from the hook and swam off with Santiago's penises in its mouth. But when the fish was caught, Santiago was rushed to a hospital where he was given a shot, but he always regretted the loss of his manhood.



FEROCIOUS wiener fish follow urine stream to its source . . . and attack.

Environmentalist Pete Brewer says the penis-eating fish is a mutant's new species of piranha. Piranhas have never been seen before. They used to be quite docile, often nibbling up to perform and gently nibbling between toes while they [illegible] and [illegible]. They're not the kind of fish you'd expect to find in the Sepik.

Why they are so aggressive is a mystery. Some scientists believe that the fish are reacting to the chemicals in the water. Marcella Mirko says:

First I felt something between my legs. It felt a little nibble. Then it swam over to my husband and bit his privates off. Our love life has not been the same since."

Fisherman Tomas Domingo would have used his "fishing rod" as well if not for the fish's thinking of my friend Pierre La Bise. I saw the wiener fish bite down on my friend's member. I tried to pull it off, but that only made my friend scream louder. So I grabbed a paddle and kept whacking the fish till it was knocked unconscious and fell off.

My friend was left black and blue but at least he still has his penis."

Dr. Jaimes ominously advises New Guinea folk to take extreme caution if they spot one of the killer fish in the water. Trust me when I say you really don't want to look down and see one of these river scavengers hanging onto your penis. These things give a whole new meaning to the term 'iron cutter.'"

BEEKEEPER STUNG TO DEATH

FRANKLIN, Conn. — It goes without saying: Never turn your back on an angry honeybee. Had beekeeper Ernest Jennings kept that rule in mind, he'd probably be alive today.

Instead, Jennings, 54, found out the hard way that bees can't be ignored.

He was working in his garden when a swarm of bees attacked. Jennings, who owned three hives, was covered with so many bees that it took a gardening garden hoop to remove them all. Sadly, it was too late — Jennings had been stung to death.

Egyptians invented toot from their armpits — &

WASHINGTON — Frenchmen don't kick the bucket when they die, they "fold the umbrella." Boys have a greater fear of falling than girls. And the cartoon character Popeye is as well known in Italy as he is in the United States, except there, fans call him "Iron Arm"!

Weekly World News

That's just a sample of the mind-boggling trivia Weekly World News reporters and editors have uncovered while researching the world's most exciting stories for you week in, week out — all year 'round.

Here's more!

● It's a good idea to stay away from crowds in Indiana from October to March, because a state law prohibits people from taking baths between those months.

● In Hawaii it's illegal to place coins in your ears.

● Ancient Chinese royalty used to eat powdered jade, which they called fen yu, and believed could make them live forever.

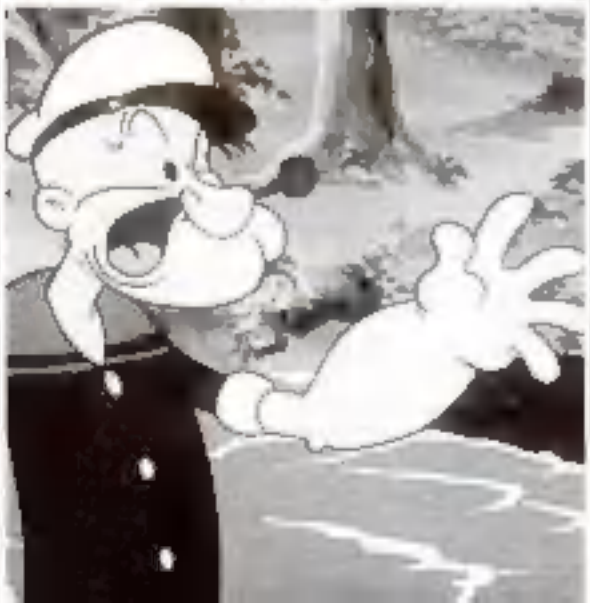
● After Britain tightened its already harsh laws against firearms following the slaughter of Scottish schoolchildren in 1996 by an enraged pedophile banned from the Boy Scouts, criminal use of handguns there soared an incredible 40 percent.

● The term "fifth column" used to describe an organization devoted to espionage or other underground activities originated with Gen. Emilio Mola in 1936 at the beginning of the Spanish Civil War. Asked which of his four columns he expected to capture Madrid, he replied, "the fifth column" — a specific reference to his undercover rebel supporters.

● Egyptians invented toothpaste sometime between 5,000 B.C. and 3,000 B.C., but it probably wouldn't sell very well today. It was concocted from the powdered ashes of oxen hooves, myrrh, burned eggshells and pumice.

● The Age of God is an ancient name for the Antichrist.

● It's a good bet you didn't know the model for the famous painting of the Mona Lisa lost her tooth between settings, and some art historians believe that's why she has her enigmatic closemouthed smile. Another tidbit for you: The model's name was Lisa di Antoni Maria di Noldo Gherardini, not Mona.



● Don't feel bad if an Indian girl in Mexico chucks rocks at you. She's just letting you know she thinks you're a hunk. If the attraction is mutual you can get the message across by tossing your own rocks.

● Smiley vampires are known to roam the islands of Crete and fooled by their friendly appearance. They love to spill blood on people, and it burns like acid. Experts say that the best way to stop the foolishness is to stake the nasty revenants, cut off their heads and boil them in vinegar.

● Approximately 8,900 people a year nationwide find ways to hurt themselves with toothpicks, seriously enough to make it a medical record.

● "Ha-Ha" means "mother" in Chinese.

● Photography was invented by two people at the same time working in different places. So was the telescope. And so was the telephone.

● Chinese acupuncturists tell obesity patients they can diminish their appetite by squeezing the earlobes for one minute.

● The earliest known jugglers were Egyptian women.

● In the last hour 3,500 cats were born in this country — and 2,000 dogs.

● Bumblebees live underground.

● Starfish lay eggs from their armpits.

● You never see bats walking around because their bones are so incredibly thin and brittle that they would break just from the impact of walking — and that's why they prefer to simply hang around.

● The Greek God Zeus, who ruled over the sky, got his thunderbolt from the Cyclops. And whenever he tossed it, an eagle brought it back.
